SUBJECT : RFE/RL: The Attitude and Policy of the East and a Proposed Policy for the West

[redacted]

E.O. 11652: N/A

TAGS: ETEL PFOR GW

Transmitted herewith for the information of the Department and Amcongen Munich is a draft article by Gerhardt Wettig on the policy and attitudes of the Eastern European countries toward Western radio stations which broadcast to the East. Wettig is a capable researcher in the field of current communist policy who works out of the Federal Institute for Eastern and International Studies in Cologne.

Wettig traces Eastern attitudes on the radios through the era of detente and in such fora as the UN, UNESCO, and CSCE. The high degree of antagonistic interest which the East has taken and continues to take in the radios, as well as valuable insight into Eastern policy toward the radios over the past eight years, are evident in Wettig's work.

In his final chapter, Wettig recommends strongly that the West maintain its interest in broadcasting to the East. He points out that such broadcasts are needed to balance Eastern influence on Western societies. They also ensure that the public in Eastern countries receives Western information on the stages of development, problems and goals of detente.
